Course Description
In a study of the Greek text, students apply linguistic and exegetical methods for the exposition of the Acts of the Apostles. Special attention will be given to Greek grammar and syntax, to narrative technique and literary structure, and to the meaning and application of the Greek text.

Course Objectives
(1) To understand and critically to evaluate academic research in Acts.
(2) To understand issues of special introduction pertaining to Acts
(3) To grow in facility with the translation of the Greek text, and with Greek grammar and syntax.
(4) To understand the implications of Acts for the contemporary church, and to understand Scripture as a model of applying theology to the life of the church.
(5) To understand with greater clarity and precision leading topics in Acts: the person and work of Christ, the ministry of the Holy Spirit, the application of redemption, and the church.

(1) The Greek New Testament (UBS4rev.).

Assignments & Requirements
(1) Weekly Quizzes. Each week, we will have a quiz covering the assigned translation for the previous week. The assigned translation is the selection of Acts in parentheses in the schedule below. Students should be prepared to translate and to parse. You will be asked on each quiz how much of the current week’s assigned reading you have completed (the weekly reading assignment covers the commentary assignments on the portion of Acts not in parentheses in the schedule below). You may drop any one quiz. There are no make-up quizzes. 40% of your final grade.

(2) Seminar Presentation. Each student will lead at least one seminar presentation in the course of the semester. In conjunction with that presentation, the student will submit an exegetical working paper not to exceed three pages in length. See guidelines below. 20% of your final grade.

(3) Final Exam or Research Paper or Sermon Outlines. Each student will choose either to write a research paper on some text of Acts or to take a final exam or to prepare a series of extended sermon outlines on Acts 13-28. The final exam will consist of translation and parsing the assigned texts of Acts, and an essay question. The final exam will be taken during final exam week. The research paper and the sermon outlines are due on ‘Paper Day’. The final exam will be administered during finals week. 30% of your final grade.

Sermon Outlines: Prepare 12 thorough sermon outlines covering the entirety of Acts 13-28. Each outline should reference at least three commentaries, and should be 1-2 pages in length. The student will also prepare one complete manuscript based on one of the outlines above.

Attendance
Class attendance is required for NT 528. If a student anticipates an unavoidable absence, he should notify the instructor in advance. Each hour of unexcused absence subjects the student reduction of his final grade by one-half of a letter grade. Students missing more than one session (for any reason) may either submit an additional, compensatory assignment [determined by the instructor] or choose to receive a full letter grade reduction in their final grade.

Course Format
NT 528 is a seminar. The success of the seminar depends upon students’ willingness to prepare adequately for each course section and to participate in class discussions. Generally, the class will proceed by student-led seminar presentations on selected portions of the Greek text of Acts. In this way we will address pertinent questions of grammar, syntax, meaning, and application that the text raises.

Grading Scale
The grading scale for this course is the seminary’s grading scale. You may find it listed at the RTS Catalog, p.44.

Plagiarism
Please review the seminary’s policy on plagiarism. Plagiarized work will subject the student to failure in the course and possible disciplinary action.

In-Class Computer Use
Computers are not permitted in this course. Cell phones must be set to silent and stowed. If for some extraordinary reason you need to take a call, you may either wait until the break or leave the classroom.
Approximate Course Schedule

Please note that this schedule is approximate and subject to change at any time. The instructor’s announced changes in class will be the final word on the nature and date of assignments. They are the student’s sole responsibility to note and to implement.

Seminar Presentations

The following, with adaptation and modification, is drawn from a course handout by Richard B. Hays

During the semester, each student will write an exegetical working paper, not to exceed three pages in length. This paper will serve as a basis for initiating class discussion on the texts with which they deal. Each student will be asked to provide enough copies of his paper for all members of the class; the result will be that all of us will end up with a working exegetical notebook on portions of the Acts of the Apostles.

Structure and Content

The following guidelines are designed to create a generic structure that will make our exegetical efforts into a communally useful enterprise. Each working paper should conform to the following format:

I. Outline of the Passage. Not just a listing of the contents (“and then…and then…”). Try to sketch an outline that illumines that structure and function of the text. How are its parts related to one another and how do they work? Do the conventions of ancient rhetoric provide clues about the structure of the argument (see commentaries)?

II. Key Exegetical Issues. Identify the major exegetical difficulties in the passage (e.g. text, translation, literary form, purported use of traditions or sources, relation to larger themes within Romans, relation to other biblical texts, historical reference). Seek to identify puzzling elements in the text that demand interpretation. The main task here is to identify and to ask good questions, not necessarily to answer them in the confines of your working paper. Try to focus our attention on what we would have to know to read the text with clarity and depth. Having raised questions, you might in some cases briefly enumerate possible answers and indicate how you would choose among the possibilities. Do not labor over every detail; labor only over those details which materially affect the interpretation of the text.

III. Significance of the Passage. What are the important questions (theological, pastoral, personal) raised for you by the passage? How does the passage speak to us and our historical situation? How might the text be used (or misused) in preaching? How has the text been read and applied in the history of interpretation (Patristic period, Reformation, etc.)?

IV. Discussion Questions. Formulate three incisive questions about the text that might be used to initiate and guide class discussion. Your questions should call for close reading of the text, not immediate reaction to it. Good questions invite us to explore the text. Bad questions invite us to explore our emotions or prejudices.

V. Additional Bibliography. Give full citations for additional sources that you have found helpful. In addition to Petersen, you should consult and reference at least the following commentaries to start: Bock (BECNT); Pervo (Herm); Barrett (ICC); Longenecker (EBC rev.); Calvin. An ATLA search will be necessary to access important and recent literature on your passage.

Assignment Dates. Papers are to be distributed to the class at the class session preceding the discussion of the passage. Observe this procedure scrupulously; this will afford everyone the opportunity to profit from your work and to come prepared to discuss the issues that you have raised. Seminar presentations will not begin before February 10.
Paper Guidelines

You will submit a 10-15 page research paper, exclusive of cover page and bibliography. This paper is an exegetical paper that demonstrates awareness of and competence in both the primary and secondary literature.

You must submit your paper both in hard copy and electronically. You may direct your electronic copy to the following e-mail address: gwaters@rts.edu. The subject line of your e-mail should read: “NT 528 Final Paper.” Send your paper in this e-mail as an MS-Word or PDF attachment only (PDF preferred).

The paper should have the following elements and meet the following guidelines:

- A concise introduction that reflects your awareness of the pertinent issues
- A strong, incisive, clearly-stated thesis in the opening of the paper
- A cogent argument that is integrally tied to and flows from your thesis
- Organization that is both inherent to the paper and evident to your reader
- A conclusion that properly concludes the argument of your paper, concisely reflecting on the implications of your thesis for our understanding of biblical teaching (generally) and for the life of the church today.
- Fair and decisive engagement of the secondary literature. You should engage positions that are similar to your own and positions with which you disagree.
- Engagement of the following kinds of sources:
  - Academic commentaries (not collections of sermons, lay commentaries, or devotional expositions)
  - Academic monographs
  - Articles published in scholarly journals
  - Literature published both before and after 1900
  - Reformed & evangelical sources as well as non-Reformed sources
- Footnotes (not endnotes or parenthetical references!). Footnotes should be single spaced, 10 pt font. The first line of each footnote should be indented.
- Pagination – each page should be clearly numbered
- Consistent, readable margins – ½ to 1 inch margins on each side of the text
- Text set in left justification, Times New Roman font, 12 pt. Set your indentation at ½ inch.
- Double or 1.5 spacing only.
- Greek or Hebrew typed or handwritten (no transliterations)
- Documentation according to format and standards prescribed in the SBL Handbook of Style – this applies both to the body of the paper and the bibliography. Please take special note of the abbreviations.
- Absence of typographical, grammatical, syntactical, or spelling errors. Such errors will result in a lower grade on your paper. Proofread!
- A staple in the upper left hand corner – no folders, etc., please.
The Good Paper Guide

In grading your final paper, I will make reference to the following criteria (in addition to the guidelines set forth above, p.4). I have adopted these criteria, with slight modification, from a syllabus of Dr. W. Duncan Rankin.

General
Is the paper interesting? substantial? well-written?
Is the paper sufficiently focused or developed?
Is the paper organized? organized clearly?

Development and Flow
Does the paper show clear plan and purpose?

Treatment
Is the thesis of your paper stated clearly? Is your thesis pedestrian?
Does your paper raise more issues than you have adequately addressed in it?
Does your paper raise issues that cannot be adequately addressed in a paper of this scope and length?
Does your paper provide sufficient data to enable the reader to understand the problems and issues?
Does your paper set forth and engage various positions fully? fairly? objectively?
Does your paper provide careful, biblical exegesis?
Do your conclusions follow from the premises and data you set forth in the paper?
Does your paper evidence knowledge of and interaction with the broader Reformed tradition? views within modern evangelicalism? non-evangelical views?
Does your paper have material that should have been excised? Does it have material that is not germane to the subject?
Is the length of your paper adequate to address the issues raised?

Documentation
Is your paper well documented? adequately documented? poorly documented?

Bibliography
Does your paper have a bibliography?
Is your bibliography excellent? adequate? poor?
Does your paper omit key secondary sources that should have been included?

Appearance
Is your paper neat in appearance? Is your paper annoying to read?

Errors
Does your paper have typographical errors? grammatical errors? syntactical errors? spelling errors?

Time of Submission
Was your paper submitted on time?
Did you submit it in both hard copy and electronically (per syllabus instructions)?

Your assigned grade is based upon the following: your successful completion of the instructions for this assignment, as those instructions are set forth in this syllabus; your overall quality of presentation; my assessment of your grasp of the subject matter; your skill in communicating the material; the quality of your work relative to your peers in the course
