Course Description:

0PT5945 Integration Seminar, 3 hours
Professor of Record:
Dr. James N. Anderson

The Integrative Seminar is the capstone of the MA/Distance degree and a forum for the discussion of the thesis. The student has the opportunity to defend his thesis before peers and faculty. The thesis will be completed in accord with the criteria laid out in the aims of OCE751 and in response to the evaluation by peers and faculty. Additionally, an instructional design is presented for teaching in the church or community related to the thesis topic.

Course Objectives:

Upon completing the course, students will know the following:

- How to present a summary of the thesis with visual support
- How to defend a formal thesis in an interview with questions from the faculty advisor
- How to complete an instructional design presentation of needs assessment, situation analysis, team organization, objectives specification, media selection, prototype construction, and program evaluation

Dr. James N. Anderson is an ordained minister in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church. Dr. Anderson came to RTS from Edinburgh, Scotland, and specializes in philosophical theology, religious epistemology, and Christian apologetics. His doctoral thesis at the University of Edinburgh explored the paradoxical nature of certain Christian doctrines and the implications for the rationality of Christian faith. His research and writing has also focused on the presuppositionalism of Cornelius Van Til, particularly his advocacy of the transcendental argument. Dr. Anderson has a longstanding concern to bring the Reformed theological tradition into greater dialogue with contemporary analytic philosophy. Before studying philosophy, Dr. Anderson also earned a Ph.D. in Computer Simulation from the University of Edinburgh. He is a member of the Society of Christian Philosophers, the British Society for the Philosophy of Religion, and the Evangelical Philosophical Society. Prior to joining RTS Charlotte, Dr. Anderson served as an assistant pastor at the historic Charlotte Chapel in Edinburgh where he engaged in regular preaching, teaching, and pastoral ministry. He is active now in service at Ballantyne Presbyterian Church in Charlotte. He is married to Catriona and they have three children. Mentor Report (10%):

You are required to submit a mentor report at the end of the course. Every portion of the form (goals, summaries, assessments, and signatures) should be completely filled out by both the student and the mentor to receive full credit. You can download the Mentor Report form in your Canvas classroom.

Assignments:

Best practice for your time management is for you to submit all assignments at the end of the week in which they fall, using the upload links provided in the LMS. All work must be submitted by midnight of the course end date, per your course start letter. You are responsible for turning in all assignments on time; no late submissions are permitted. Any student who needs an extension must get approval from the Registrar prior to that time.

Course Outline

Pre-Seminar
Draft of thesis is approved by faculty advisor and graded for 0CE751 at least one month before date of seminar.

Seminar
Student presents 30 minute summary of thesis to seminar participants and via web conferencing with a PowerPoint series of ten slides or so.

Student responds to 25-30 minute Q&A from thesis advisor.

Student presents Instructional Design Project for teaching material for the local church related to the thesis topic.

Student writes a short essay on some current event related to their thesis topic.

Post-Seminar
Final Revisions are made to written document and approved.
The instructional project for the Integration Seminar is to make a plan for doing the instructional design of an educational product or typical teaching series for the student’s local church. A finished product is not necessary, just two or three paragraphs per step below on the plan to do this instructional design. Complete a simple PowerPoint series of ten slides or so for this exercise. The steps for instructional design and development are as follows:

1. Needs Assessment
What are the benefits to be sought for your learner? Find the gap between the ideal and the status quo. What is the “job” that your learner will choose you or your educational product to do? Surveys, interviews, records, etc. are sources of data for a needs assessment. You do not have to complete the study, but write a plan of how you might do the data collection and analysis and what you expect to find in your study.

2. Situation Analysis
This phase leads to knowing the features of the education needed for your learner to reach the learning outcomes and for your company to earn positive net revenue (income minus expenses)? What are the constraints and opportunities with your time, money, resources, people, etc.? What is revealed by a “SWOT analysis” of the setting (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, Threats)?

3. Team Organization
What are the roles and goals for each member of the team responsible for design, development and evaluation of education delivery? What professional skills and disciplines will be needed on the team for delivery? List abilities and interests necessary for project success. What is the character and competence needed to be observed for trust in each member of the team?

4. Objectives Specification
What will the learner know, feel and do upon completion of the instruction? How is this set of outcomes consistent with the Purpose, Vision, Mission and important Directions of the church?

5. Media and Software Selection
Given the above “front-end analysis”, what are the recommended formats or medium/media for the project? Oral, text, ... and/or audio, video, animation, etc.?

6. Evaluation
What is the match of the objectives and needs to the learner outcomes observed by both internal and external reviewers? How would you set up formative and summative evaluation processes? How would your findings be recycled for future improvements in this example of Christian education?
