 - 2. There will be opportunity for class participation and questions during the lectures.

3. You will be expected to use the internet in the classroom only for appropriate class-related activities. Please consult Appendix A regarding the RTS Charlotte policy on classroom technology usage.
 4. A proportion of your final grade (see below) will depend on your attendance record and your participation in the classes (thoughtful interaction with the professor and other students).
- B. Reading assignments.
1. A proportion of your final grade will depend on how much of the required reading you have completed.
 2. A reading report indicating the percentage completed of each required reading item is due on May 12. The report should be submitted via the course website (look for the link on the Modules page) on or prior to this date.
 3. Late submissions will be penalized 5 percentage points for each day beyond the deadline.
 4. A reading schedule will be provided at the start of class.
- C. Personal reflection paper.
1. You are required to write a short paper (1500–2500 words) reflecting critically on your own cultural conditioning and cultural context. (You may narrow the focus of your reflection to one or more subcultures if you wish.)
 2. Your paper should address at least some of the following questions:
 - i. What are the distinguishing elements or features of your culture(s), i.e., the culture(s) with which you most closely identify?
 - ii. What have been the major cultural influences in your life?
 - iii. In what ways has your culture defined and shaped your Christian faith and life?
 - iv. Do you have any cultural ‘blind spots’?
 - v. How would you evaluate the various elements of your culture? Which are biblical/unbiblical? Which are good/bad/neutral? Which are helpful/unhelpful?
 3. Your personal reflection paper is due on March 18. It should be uploaded to the course website (look for the link on the Modules page) on or prior to this date.
 4. Late submissions will be penalized 5 percentage points for each day beyond the deadline.
- D. Class presentation.
1. You are required to give a 5–10 minute presentation to class, in which you will discuss a familiar biblical text (of your choosing) from the perspective of cultural analysis and contextualization.
 2. Your presentation should address each of the following three questions:
 - i. How does knowledge of the cultural context of the (human) author and the original readers/hearers help us to properly interpret and apply the text?
 - ii. How might we expound and apply the text in our own cultural context?
 - iii. In what ways might our own cultural context incline us to misinterpret or misapply the text?
 3. The presentations will take place in the second half of the semester (after spring break) but you must submit your biblical text for approval by me before March 14.
 4. There will be opportunity for open discussion following each presentation.

E. Research paper.

1. You are required to write a critical research paper (3500–4500 words, excluding footnotes) on any topic addressed in the lectures or readings. If you're in any doubt about whether your topic is a suitable one, please check with me first.
2. Whatever topic you choose, make sure that your paper has a clear, focused thesis.
3. Your paper will be graded according to the following criteria, in no particular order: responsible use of Scripture, responsible use of sources, extent of research, creativity, clarity, structure and coherence, cogency of argument, practical relevance, evidence of critical thinking, and good writing style (inc. grammar, spelling, and punctuation).
4. The paper should cite at least 8 scholarly sources.
 - i. For the purposes of this paper, a scholarly source is a book or article by a recognized expert in the field (and not aimed at a popular level for a general audience)—ideally one that has been peer-reviewed.
 - ii. Wikipedia is clearly not a scholarly source.
 - iii. That said, with sufficient discernment, Wikipedia can be a useful pointer to scholarly sources and is generally reliable for fact-checking on uncontroversial issues.
 - iv. Please consult me if you have any doubts about whether a source is scholarly.
 - v. You should not rely heavily on internet sources. Use the library!
5. The paper should be word-processed, not hand-written.
 - i. Use a 12-point font and double line-spacing for the main text.
 - ii. Use section headings where applicable to improve readability.
 - iii. Use footnotes (10-point font) rather than endnotes.
 - iv. Use a recognized scholarly style for citations (e.g., Chicago, Turabian, SBL).
6. The paper should be submitted with a title page containing all of the following: the name and year of the course; your name; the professor's name; the title of the paper; and the exact word count for the main text of the paper (obtained from your word processor's word-count feature).
7. You will be penalized if you do not observe the requirements and guidelines above.
8. For good examples of scholarly papers using scholarly sources, take a look at the online papers from the Journal of the Evangelical Theological Society (here) and the Westminster Theological Journal (here). For good examples of research papers from RTS Charlotte students, visit the Pen and Parchment webpage (here).
9. Your paper is due on May 12. It should be uploaded to the course website (look for the link on the Modules page) on or prior to this date.
10. Late submissions will be penalized 5 percentage points for each day beyond the deadline.

F. Final exam.

1. The final exam should be taken during the exam period: May 12–17.
2. The exam will consist of three short-essay questions based on all of the class material and all of the required reading. You will have three hours to complete it.
3. It is an open-book exam, but you will still need to arrange a proctor.
4. You will be asked to sign a declaration that you have not discussed the content of the exam with anyone who has previously taken the exam.

VII. Required Reading

You should obtain copies of all the items below. You should also bring an English translation of the Bible to class. ESV is preferred, since that is what I’ll be using. NIV, NASB, and CSB are acceptable; KJV and The Message are not!

- A. D. A. Carson, “Athens Revisited,” in Telling the Truth: Evangelizing Postmoderns, ed. D. A. Carson (Zondervan, 2000). [Available on the course website.]
- B. William Edgar, Created and Creating (IVP Academic, 2017).
- C. John M. Frame, “Part Five: Christ and Culture,” in The Doctrine of the Christian Life (P&R, 2008). [Available on the course website.]
- D. John M. Frame, “How to Write a Theological Paper,” Appendix F in The Doctrine of the Knowledge of God (P&R, 1987). [Available on the course website.]
- E. Timothy Keller, Loving the City (Zondervan, 2016).

- G. H. Richard Niebuhr, Christ and Culture (HarperCollins, 2006). [Be sure to get the 50th-anniversary expanded edition.]

VIII. Recommended Supplementary Reading

You are not required to read any of the items below, but you may find them useful to consolidate the course material and for further study as your interests dictate. For many of these, the table of contents can be viewed on Amazon.com or Google Books. Further recommendations for specific topics are included in the course outline.

- A. Bruce Ashford, Every Square Inch: An Introduction to Cultural Engagement for Christians (Lexham Press, 2015).
[Solid introduction from a Kuyperian perspective, but not deep or detailed.]
- B. John Barber, The Road from Eden: Studies in Christianity and Culture (Academica Press, 2008).
[A detailed study of the influence of Christianity on Western culture, written from a Reformed perspective.]
- C. D. A. Carson, Christ and Culture Revisited (Eerdmans, 2008).
[As the title indicates, this is Carson's revisiting and updating of Niebuhr's classic work. In my humble opinion, not one of Carson's best works—it raises more questions than it answers in the end—but still provides many useful and provocative insights.]
- D. Joshua D. Chatraw and Karen Swallow Prior, Cultural Engagement: A Crash Course in Contemporary Issues (Zondervan Academic, 2019).
[A collection of short articles by a wide range of authors (from conservative to liberal) commenting on various contemporary issues. Raises more questions than it answers!]
- E. Andy Crouch, Culture Making: Recovering Our Creative Calling (InterVarsity Press, 2008).
[Insightful and provocative contribution to the evangelical debate over culture. Crouch's thesis is that the only effective way for Christians to change culture is to create culture.]
- F. Rod Dreher, The Benedict Option: A Strategy for Christians in a Post-Christian Nation (Sentinel, 2017).
[Important and controversial contribution to the debate over how Christians in the U.S. (and the West more generally) should respond to the collapse of Christendom. The book has provoked much discussion, only a fraction of which engages with Dreher's proposal in a responsible fashion.]
- G. Dean Flemming, Contextualization in the New Testament: Patterns for Theology and Mission (IVP Academic, 2005).
[Very insightful and thorough treatment of how the fledgling Christian church (and especially the apostle Paul) contextualized its theology for the sake of missions.]
- H. John M. Frame, "Is Natural Revelation Sufficient to Govern Culture?" Christian Culture (August 2006).
<https://frame-poythress.org/is-natural-revelation-sufficient-to-govern-culture/>
- I. James Davison Hunter, To Change the World: The Irony, Tragedy, & Possibility of Christianity in the Late Modern World (Oxford University Press, 2010).
[Hunter offers explanations for why Christian efforts to change the world have so often failed or turned out to be counterproductive. Includes critiques of the Christian Right (e.g., Colson), Left (e.g., Wallis), and Neo-Anabaptists (e.g., Hauerwas). Hunter's thesis is sure to provoke discussion for many years to come.]
- J. Timothy Keller, Center Church: Doing Balanced, Gospel-Centered Ministry in Your City (Zondervan, 2012).

- [Part-vision-casting, part-handbook for church planting in urban contexts. The required reading, Loving the City, is the second section (parts 3-5) of this larger book.]
- K. Abraham Kuyper, Lectures on Calvinism (Hendrickson, 2008).
[A series of lectures delivered at Princeton Theological Seminary in 1898 in which Kuyper, a Dutch Calvinist theologian and statesman, argues that Reformed theology is a worldview that has significant implications for all aspects of human culture. Various editions available.]
- L. Ryan C. McIlhenny, ed., Kingdoms Apart: Engaging the Two Kingdoms Perspective (P&R, 2012).
[Collection of critical essays on the Reformed Two Kingdoms perspective.]
- M. Ken Myers, All God's Children & Blue Suede Shoes: Christians and Popular Culture (Crossway, 1989/2012).
[An influential and insightful guide for analyzing and engaging with popular culture.]
- N. Lesslie Newbigin, Foolishness to the Greeks: The Gospel and Western Culture (Eerdmans, 1986).
[Expanded version of the 1984 Warfield Lectures delivered at Princeton Theological Seminary in which Newbigin calls for a “missionary encounter” with modern Western culture; a precursor to The Gospel in a Pluralist Society (see below).]
- O. Lesslie Newbigin, The Gospel in a Pluralist Society (Eerdmans, 1989).
[Influential work by a British theologian and missiologist addressing the challenges of Christian witness in a pluralist society; deals with issues of cultural engagement and contextualization.]
- P. James K. A. Smith, Desiring the Kingdom: Worship, Worldview, and Cultural Formation (Baker Academic, 2009).
[The first volume in Smith’s Cultural Liturgies series. An important corrective—but also in some respects an overreaction—to intellectualized forms of Christian education.]
- Q. Charles Taylor, A Secular Age (Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, 2007).
[Highly influential account of the rise of modern Western secularism by a Roman Catholic philosopher. Regularly cited by Protestant cultural commentators such as Tim Keller, Al Mohler, and James K. A. Smith. See also Smith’s introduction to Taylor’s thought, How (Not) to Be Secular.]
- R. Ted Turnau, Popologetics: Popular Culture in Christian Perspective (P&R, 2012).
[Turnau argues for a balanced approach to engaging popular culture, recognizing both the good and the bad, with a particular emphasis on worldview analysis.]
- S. Henry R. Van Til, The Calvinistic Concept of Culture (P&R, 1959).
[Very insightful analysis from a conservative Dutch Reformed perspective. The author was the nephew of Cornelius Van Til and clearly influenced by his thought.]
- T. Albert M. Wolters, Creation Regained: Biblical Basics for a Reformational Worldview (Eerdmans, 2nd ed., 2005).
[Concise exposition of a “reformational worldview” with a focus on how we should think about creation, culture, and our calling in the world. Wolters writes from a Dutch (Neo-)Calvinist perspective. Emphasizes the cosmic aspects of redemption to the neglect of the personal/individual aspects (in my estimation).]

Appendix A: RTS Charlotte Classroom Technology Usage

Academic Dean's Office

RTS Charlotte recognizes how essential it is for students to have reliable, campus-wide access to the internet. For that reason, we have made Wi-Fi available for our student body, not only in the library and student lounges, but also in the classrooms. We know that students need to use the internet to download class materials, access files on the Cloud, and locate other important information.

However, we also recognize that internet access in the classroom provides opportunity for abuse and misuse. Some students have unfortunately used their internet access to engage in many activities that distract them from the classroom lectures (e.g., surfing the web, checking sports scores, playing games). Not only does such activity hamper a student's own seminary education, but it distracts other students who can easily view the screens of nearby students. In addition, donors and classroom guests (who often sit in the back) can see this inappropriate internet usage, which reflects poorly on RTS.

In order to address this issue, we must appeal to the integrity of the students as ones who are preparing for a lifetime of ministry to Christ and his church. We expect each student to take personal responsibility for proper classroom technology usage and to encourage others around them to do the same. All RTS Charlotte students are accountable to the policies stated in the Student Handbook and Academic Catalog are therefore expected to use technology in the classroom only for appropriate class-related activities.

From the Student Handbook: "Classroom etiquette also includes leaving cell phones turned off, refraining from surfing the Internet and laptop computer games and communicating to your neighbor during lectures. Student conduct is under the supervision of the Dean of Students."

Appendix B: Instructions for Exams with LockDown Browser

1. Install the LockDown Browser application on the computer you intend to use for exams, prior to sitting for the exam, using this link:
<https://download.respondus.com/lockdown/download.php?id=998253613>
 - This link is only for RTS students and covers both Mac and Windows applications.
 - Be sure that you are able to login to your Canvas account from the LockDown Browser before scheduling a time to take your exam.
 - The LockDown Browser application is already installed on the computers in the RTS Charlotte library. (Note that if you elect to use the library computers, your proctor must still be present throughout the duration of the exam.)
 - If you use internet filtering software (for example, Covenant Eyes) you may need to disable it before beginning an exam with LockDown Browser. Some types of filtering software can block your computer's connection to Canvas. Also, please be sure to add an exception for our Canvas URL:
<https://rts.instructure.com>
 - It is recommended that Chromebooks and iPads are not used as the LockDown Browser doesn't work properly on these devices.
2. Make arrangements with a proctor to supervise the exam within the date timeframe set by the professor. The proctor may be a family member so long as they are over 18 and not a current RTS student (current = taken a class within the past year but not yet graduated). Proctors may not be a member of the library staff. Typical proctors are pastors or church staff members. The document "Proctor Expectations Letter.doc" has been provided on your Canvas homepage in order to facilitate communication with your proctor. For your convenience, there will be several on-campus proctor blocks where a proctor will be available to supervise your exam. Dates and times will be posted on Canvas and announced in the weekly Semper.
3. The proctor must observe student taking exam and ensure that there are no devices or resources available other than the computer being used for the exam.
4. Access the exam during the date window specified for that exam:
 - a. Start the LockDown Browser application using a wired or known reliable WiFi connection. We do not recommend using restaurant or coffee shop WiFi to take exams.
 - b. Have your student ID number available to input into the exam.
 - c. If you use internet filtering software, you may need to disable it before beginning an exam with the LockDown Browser.
 - d. Login to your Canvas account using your Self-Service username and password. If you need to reset your Self-Service password, you may do so at <https://selfservice.rts.edu>
 - e. Navigate to the exam. You will not be able to access the exam with a standard web browser. For additional details on using LockDown Browser, review this Student Quick Start Guide \(PDF\).
 - f. Time clock will begin once you open the exam.
 - g. Exam must be completed in one sitting. You may not exit and return to exam later.
 - h. The exam will contain questions requiring the proctor contact information, an honor pledge, and certification that your proctor was present during the entire exam period.
5. Proctors may be contacted to verify information regarding exam administration.
6. In the rare case of a technical issue (for example, if internet service goes out during exam), the proctor should contact the course TA. While the TAs may not be immediately available, the date and time of the email will document when the issue was reported. Please have your TA's contact information available for your proctor before opening the exam. Once you open the exam using the LockDown Browser, you will not be able to access other programs on your computers.
